

ASLAN SUSTAINABILITY REPORT 2022

2022 was a year of growth as a result of major disruptions in the tourism industry. This was primarily due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the general elections in Kenya. Easing of restrictions gave an uninterrupted first 6 months of the year. The elections may have slowed down willingness to travel but overall there was a major sense of optimism in 2022.

As a company operating in the tourism industry, that is a major influence in greenhouse emissions and society, we are making major strides to negate our impact. We also acknowledge the opportunity for tourism and travel to be a platform for social justice in a broken world.

In 2022, we were able to proudly report that our actions are starting to achieve positive results across the board. See the snapshot of our success in 2022:

Zero

Use of printing for non-essential operations

12,000 Kshs

Donated to local community and environmental initiatives

13

Train trips sold in packages

Zero

Plastic water bottles used on safari